

Bob Muffin

The Fellowship of the Muffin

Once Upon a time there lived a monkey. But this story isn't about a monkey. It is about a man, a man named Bob Muffin. During Bob Muffin's time the evil 1980s group Styx opened a time rift and sent themselves, Mr. Roboto, a very confused monkey, and thousands of other miscellaneous things almost all of which I probably won't mention in the story in an era, the era of Bob Muffin. Anyway, since he was more powerful Mr. Roboto took control of Styx and forced them to do horrific deeds. Now only one man can save the universe... Not James Bond, not Aragorn son of Arathorn, Not even Jacques LaFluer. No, this man was Bob Muffin.

One day Bob was walking down Main Street in Funkytown when he heard the screeching of a monkey in France. Upon arriving at the scene Bob discovered the 1980s group Styx had attacked again. Bob returned and interrogated several Funkeytowners about the whereabouts of Mr. Roboto's secret liar. With the information the villagers had given him Bob gathered supplies and headed for Mr. Roboto's lair.

Before leaving Bob enlisted several people for help. Shen Connery, the original Bond James Bond, Jacques LaFleur, the nine inch detective, who also had a very good skill of throwing coconuts, and Steve the Pirate (what more needs to be said about him!) With his new traveling companions Bob and co. set out to destroy Mr. Roboto. They would forever be known as the Fellowship of the Muffin.

After many nights of traveling without any success the Fellowship of the Muffin decided to make camp for the night and think about heading back home. Their supplies were low, as were their morals and Jacques wouldn't shut up. Just as he sat down however, Steve the Pirate fell down a ten-foot deep hole exclaiming, "Arghhhh I fell down a ten-foot deep hole" (What did you expect him to say? Weeeeeeee?!?)

After they had investigated the hole and gotten Steve out of it they realized that this hole was a secret entrance to Mr. Roboto's lair!!! "It shhhhheems" Said Connery, " We have found Mr. Roboto'ssssss ssssecret lair. No sooner had he said this when a monkey dropped from the ceiling holding a type-seven atom blaster. "Ooohhh ahhhh ohhhh ohhhh ahhhhhhhh." It seems the adventure is over you silly English conigits (Obviously that's the translation)

"Is that sssssso?" Asked Connery. "I think itsssss jussssst begun." "Ohhhh, ahhhh ohhh ahhhh ahhhh!" We'll see, prepare to be vaporized! Screamed the monkey. Then a loud series of "CLUNKS" could be heard and the monkey fell over, unconscious. Moments earlier a swirling, blue, time rift had opened and released several hundred coconuts right over the evil henchmonkey.

Jacques walked over to the pile of coconuts and stashed several in his pack for later ammunition. As they rounded a corner the fellowship saw a man. A man that was half human, half robot... Mr. Roboto!!! "By entering this room you have all sealed your fates." Said Mr. Roboto. Even as giant steel doors closed over the exits. "Now prepare to die!"

P.S.

If anyone thinks Styx is a good band I am not saying their evil I am simply stating that Mr. Roboto forced them to do horrific deeds. 😊.

P.P.S.

If you didn't, you have to reread the story and say all of Connery's parts with an accent like his. 😊. (Again.)